

More progress from the “Theory of Change” project!

We’re excited to share the latest steps forward in our mission to support migrant children through education and social inclusion.

Training in Milan, Italy – New Tools for Inclusion

In February, we held a dynamic training in Milan to introduce the educational toolkits and game bank developed in WP3. These resources aim to support migrant children's integration at school and in society. Educators, teachers, and youth workers took part in hands-on workshops focused on language learning, communication, active participation, and emotional skills — a key moment of preparation and exchange.

WP4 Begins – Experience That Empowers

Now, with WP4 officially launched, the project moves into action on the ground.

Children are engaging in language labs, educational games, individual coaching, and activities with local communities. These moments help them discover their surroundings, build skills, and form meaningful connections.

Above all, the activities promote intercultural understanding and peer socialization, offering safe spaces where migrant youth from different backgrounds can meet, express themselves, and learn from one another.
